A Parent's Guide: Preventing Child Sexual Abuse - Making Safe Choices (Parents of Grades PK-8)

Lentz, Mary A.

The Parent's Guide contains examples of discussions between parents and children of different age groups concerning issues of child abuse. The book alerts parents to situations and dangers they should watch for in order to prevent their children from being abused. It also informs them about what their children are learning in school concerning how to stay safe. Parents are also given examples of the right words and attitudes they should use in talking to their children about issues surrounding abuse.

Abuso Sexual Infantil En La Comunidad Hispana– En Español with English Subtitles (Parents ONLY)

You Have the Power

Carmen and Soledad were both sexually abused as children by family members. Now, as adults, they share their stories. Gabriella, a therapist with the Nashville Child Advocacy center, talks about tactics offenders use with victims, how abuse can be prevented, why children don't tell, and the healing process. Mary, an attorney and Hispanic advocate, discusses why the Hispanic community is hesitant to report. She emphasizes that reporting is important and encourages viewers to learn about their local laws so they will be able to get help for both the victim and offender. Anger: You Can Handle It (Grades 7-12)

Sunburst Visual Media

It is essential for teenagers to learn that it is possible to control their anger. ANGER: YOU CAN HANDLE IT shows high school students that there are safe, nondestructive ways of expressing and dealing with this most troubling of human emotions. This video comes with a study guide that will allow the students to role-play anger management skills that they can incorporate into their daily lives and defuse anger long enough to find nonviolent ways of responding to provocative situations. * In order to be recognized by USCCB Charter as an educational Video, we must discuss how anger can lead to different types of abuse: *emotional, *neglect, *physical, and *sexual. Behind the Screens: Child Sex Abuse on The Internet (Parents & Grades 6-12)

You Have the Power

The Internet may be a seemingly innocent way to make friends, but victims and experts issue a stern warning and offer advice on how to stay safe online. Predators will give the attention and compliments that teenagers are craving, especially if they are lonely and self-conscious. Even if you have taken precautions, using filtering software and avoiding chat rooms, you can still be fooled.

Believe Me (Grades 3-4)

Mitchell, J. Gary

This video is designed for grade levels 3-4 and comes with a discussion guide to help teachers, parents, and children learn to recognize sexual abuse. Viewers will understand the importance of continuing to tell until someone believes you; realize that even a beloved family member can be an abuser; discover that touching that makes a child feel confused, uncomfortable, or scared is bad; learn that sometimes it's hard for a parent to believe a child is being abused because of the parent's relationship to the abuser; recognize that even though abusers frequently tell children to keep the abuse a secret, the abused child should always tell an adult about it; understand how awful it feels not to be believed.

Bully No More: Stopping the Abuse (Grades 4-8 ONLY)

AIMS Multimedia

Host Ruby Unger talks with a wide range of kids who tell how to keep from being a target of bullies, how to stop bullies and get them help, and what to do if you're a witness. This research-based program addresses the four types of student peer abuse -- physical, verbal, emotional, and sexual. Animation and humor are used to illustrate the teaching points, while role-playing examples demonstrate "win-win" techniques for handling bullies. Messages stress respect, compassion, assertiveness, and non-violence. Ruby Unger was "Ms. Nancy" on TV's Romper Room, San Francisco. A former special education teacher, she is the creator of a number of award-winning educational videos, also distributed by AIMS, for children in primary through secondary grades. Her warmth and comic style put kids at ease as together they find the solutions to everyday tough situations.

Bullying: What Every Adult Needs to Know (Parents of Grades 6-12)

Brown, Mark

As long as there have been schools, there have been bullies teasing, threatening, punching, and kicking their peers. But we know today that bullying has serious consequences for both the victims and the bullies, ranging from low self-esteem to suicide. Young people need guidance from the adults in their lives to deal with bullying in a healthy way. Bullying: What Every Adult Needs to Know educates adults about what bullying is and what they can do to help the young people in their lives when bullying is a problem. Featuring Mark Brown, a Youth Motivational Specialist, as well as Lynne Reeves Griffin, Director of Proactive Parenting. Study guide is included. Length: 25 minutes. Catie the Caterpillar (Grades PK-1)

Schamburg, Tracy M.

Catie is a sweet little caterpillar who suddenly stops eating, sleeping, playing and praying because she is keeping a terrible secret: she is being sexually abused by her uncle. With the help of a wise old caterpillar counselor, Catie is finally able to reveal her trauma and get the support she needs and deserves. She is transformed into a beautiful butterfly, a symbol of the freedom that accompanies the healing process and of the victory over shame won by the Holy Spirit. Talking about abuse is only the first step to recovery, so Catie's story is followed by discussion questions to further facilitate the therapeutic process and bring to life God's real and constant love for us all. Child Lures: PREVENTION: Think First and Stay Safe- Presenter LURING: What Would You Do? Student (Grades K-6)

Child Lures Prevention

This video is the first part of a two-part series. Crimes against children know no boundaries. Sexual exploitation, abduction, Internet crime, drug abuse, and school violence occur at every socioeconomic level and across all geographic boundaries. The good news is that many of these crimes are preventable. It is imperative to teach students personal safety skills that will enable them to take an active and necessary role in protecting themselves from such crimes. By giving children the tools that enable them to recognize and avoid potentially dangerous situations and people, we give them a better chance of growing up into happy, healthy, and productive adults. The CHILD LURES SCHOOL PROGRAM is a personal safety program designed for students of all ages. The Presenter's Instruction Guide contains separate scripted lessons plans for elementary students and middle/high school students. The Educational Goals are:

- To establish an understanding that the vast majority of people are decent, caring individuals who are protective of youngsters.
- To assure students that laws exist to protect their safety because bullying, sexual abuse and harassment are against the law.
- To advise students that they have rights too, including a right to live free of abuse.
- To encourage students to rely on a combination of skills learned, critical thinking and instincts to help ensure their personal safety.
- To nurture each youngster's sense of individual worth and urge them to recognize and respect the worth of others.
- To strive for kinder, more tolerant students in an effort to lower the incidence of all forms of aggressive behavior.
- To promote disclosure of any type of threat to a youngster's safety.
- To assure youngsters with thoughts of abusing others that help is available.
- To reduce the feelings of guilt and blame often felt by children who are mistreated.
- To encourage parents to take an active role in the personal safety education of their children.

Shared Hope International (NR Grades #-#)

As traffickers narrow their target to lure younger and younger victims, America's youth find themselves engaged in a battle they never prepared for. Learn the shocking true stories of two 'All-American' teenage girls tricked into being trafficked. Eighteen-year-old Brianna was an honor-roll student, cheerleader and worked at a local café. Thirteen-year-old Lacy was an active member of her youth group, and a volunteer in her community. Both were chosen.

This comprehensive video resource equips teens to recognize the warning signs of sex trafficking to protect themselves and their peers from being recruited for sex trafficking.

Creating Safe and Sacred Places (Parents/Teachers)

McGlone, Gerard J.

One of the most important strategies for preventing abusive experiences is to educate communities on the signs and characteristics of "right" and "not right" or abusive relationships. This manual includes in-depth discussion on sexual abuse, sexual offenders, and signs of abuse, as well as a candid chapter regarding sexual abuse and the Church. It also includes a compelling reflection written by a sexual abuse survivor. This program is designed for grades 7-12. Parish and school leaders, as representatives of the Church, have a distinct responsibility to be advocates for our young people in the Church arena. Parents and caretakers must have confidence in these institutions before they will allow their children to become involved with them.

Creating Safe and Sacred Places for Young Adolescents

(Parents/Teachers)

Delgatto, Laurie

In recent years, our Church and society have begun to understand the pervasiveness of child sexual abuse. As our awareness of the effects of child abuse grows, frustrated educators and church leaders continue to look for ways we can prevent abuse from happening to children. CREATING SAFE AND SACRED PLACES FOR YOUNG ADOLESCENTS was written in response to the ever-growing need to educate young adolescents (grades 5-8) in the prevention of sexual abuse. The manual includes three sixty-minute educational sessions for 5th and 6th graders, as well as three sixty-minute sessions for 7th and 8th graders.

Cyber-Seduction: Danger on the Web (Grades 7-12)

Mitchell, J. Gary

This documentary explores a new and growing threat to all children with access to the Internet. It demonstrates through the real-life stories of two teenagers and their mothers, it is now possible for a sexual predator to masquerade behind the anonymity of a chat room and pretend to be a trusted friend. By telling their stories, these teens hope to prevent other kids from being conned into life-threatening situations. In hindsight, each mother sees clues that could have been helpful in protecting her child from harm. An FBI Special Agent explains that the Internet is providing a venue for strangers to come into the home and gain the trust of unsuspecting kids. A psychologist focuses on the underlying causes of the problem. The National Center for Missing and Exploited Children provides simple, effective ground rules for avoiding trouble while online. This program prepares parents to create a relationship with their children that will promote safe use of the Internet. Dealing With Anger (Grades 6-8)

Human Relations Media

Uncontrolled anger among teens is one of our nation's largest concerns. This program gives middle school students the tools they need to recognize and deal with their own frustration and stress. This DVD explores a variety of situations that can trigger angry feelings--Erin is rejected by a boyfriend, PJ is embarrassed in front of his peers, Toby is taunted by a classmate. Each scenario invites class discussion. For each, a positive strategy is offered for expressing and channeling anger. This DVD also closely analyzes the consequences of misguided emotions and quick tempers. The program provides a solid set of alternatives for dealing with anger in a healthy way. The DVD and accompanying print materials teach students to take note of the warning signs of rage, to classify gradations of anger, and to appreciate the benefits of patience, self-control, and other anger management techniques. Dealing with Teen Dating Abuse: Crossing the Line (Grades 9-12)

Human Relations Media

Crossing the Line is a vital tool for combating teen dating violence and abuse. In a nationwide survey by the Centers for Disease Control, 10% of high school students reported being physically abused by a boyfriend or girlfriend. An effective program to combat teen dating abuse is an essential part of any high school health and guidance curriculum. This is the story of Megan – a happy, athletic, “A” student who wants desperately to be in a relationship and have a boyfriend. She connects with Matt, who seems at first to be her soul mate. As their relationship evolves, Matt monopolizes more and more of Megan’s time. He isolates her from her friends and activities, abuses her verbally and eventually becomes physically violent. The program tells Megan’s story in dramatic vignettes that are grounded in the latest research on teen dating abuse. Your students will relate to Megan, Matt and their peers as they bring the causes and consequences of teen dating abuse to life.

Digital Smarts: Behaving Ethically Online (Grades 7-12)

Human Relations Media

Cyber ethics and respect for others online are critical skills to acquire for today’s connected teens. The message of this teen-centered video is that all students have a responsibility to behave ethically online and to know how to react when others behave in inappropriate ways. Teen hosts discuss the ethics of issues such as distributing unflattering pictures or posts aimed at harming someone’s reputation and the importance of respecting the privacy of others. They emphasize the importance of respecting the safety of others and becoming an upstander rather than a bystander when witnessing abusive behavior online. One teen gives a real-life account of the devastating effects of being cyber bullied. Student interviews expose the extent of plagiarism among their peers and student attitudes about plagiarism. The program details the differences between legitimate online research and plagiarism. Similarly, the differences between legitimate sharing online and piracy are clearly spelled out as are the ethical implications and legal risks of stealing someone else’s work.

Exploring Healthy Relationships (Grades 8-12)

Human Relations Media

By introducing us to the four keys of a healthy relationship; mutual respect, open communication, trust and boundaries, Dr. Deborah Gatins, a clinical psychologist, helps students figure out how they can use these keys more successfully in everyday life. This video follows two families as their teenage children negotiate relationships with parents, siblings, friends, teachers and even employers. It is an intimate portrait of how real families in this new millennium work (most of the time) and do not work (some of the time). Not only will your students learn a new "relationship vocabulary," they will get a firm grasp on ways to have healthier relationships. They will also learn to accept mistakes made by parents and other adults with understanding and humor. One of the first and most popular anti-bullying videos, Gum in my Hair Version 2.0 includes new research, all new interviews and a new approach to tackling the age-old problem of bullying in schools. Like the original, which is being used in thousands of schools across North America and Europe, Gum in my Hair 2.0 is energetic, entertaining, and— most importantly—effective. The video emphasizes: the role of the bystander in fueling or defusing a bullying incident, empathy and how teaching it can prevent bullying in the hallways, why it's important to focus on "bullying" rather than just the bully, the fact that having one or two friends or allies significantly reduces a child's chances of being bullied.

Handling Dating Pressures and Harassment (Grades 9-12 ONLY)

Pritchard, Michael

Filmed across America, in real schools with real students, each PEACE TALKS video program turns its attention to one aspect of the spectrum of violence that young people face in their everyday lives. This particular video deals with dating pressures, such as dangerous or abusive relationships and sexual harassment. It also emphasizes the value of positive self-esteem and that violence is a choice, and each and every one of us can reduce violence and make our lives safer by choosing peace. Choosing peace means understanding that violence is not random, universal, or inevitable. We can prevent and reduce violence by choosing to avoid or deescalate conflicts and avoid risk factors for violence.

I Never Thought It Was Rape: Understanding Acquaintance Rape and Consent (Grades 9-12)

You Have the Power

Melanie was victimized by a friend after a college party. A friend brought her several drinks and later offered her a ride home. The next morning she woke up to find she wasn't wearing any clothes, and the guy was in her room. She was very confused and had little memory of what happened after the party. It took several years for her to fully realize what happened was rape. When Kristen was 13, her family relocated to another state. Up to that point, she had had a happy childhood. But after the move, she found it hard to fit in and make friends. A 17-year-old guy began showing her the attention she craved. He was good-looking, charming, her first crush. One day, she went to his house to hang out, and he forced her to have sex. He told her, "This is what love is." Kristen later struggled with an eating disorder and started cutting herself. In counseling, she overcame her body shame and learned that it was OK to set boundaries. Matthew has just completed a 10-year sentence for rape. When he was 18, he had sexual contact with a girl who was 12. He knew what he did was morally wrong, but he didn't know that according to the law it was rape. Now he is a registered sex offender. For the rest of his life, he will have to check in with the sheriff's department 4 times a year to update his personal information. He can never work with children or live within 1000 feet of a school. He and his parents want others to learn from this story. PLEASE BE SURE TO INTERJECT CATHOLIC VIEWPOINTS.

I Was Cyberbullied (Grades 7-12)

Human Relations Media

Program presents three real-life stories from kids who were targets of cyber bullying attacks and offers viewers practical suggestions for how to avoid being victimized by this new, rapidly-spreading type of bullying. Each story highlights important tips such as: only post the type of information online that you would be comfortable with others seeing; remember that once an email or photo is posted online, you can't take it back; avoid responding to vicious texts or emails that might escalate a situation further; and know when to turn to a trusted adult for help. Renowned "bully coach" Joel Haber leads a discussion on how serious and damaging cyber bullying can be, and touches upon recent cases of children committing suicide after being cyber bullied. This timely program will strike a chord with all viewers—those who may have been victimized as well as those who may have thought that cyber bullying was "no big deal."

If It Happens to You: Dealing With Abuse (Grades 3-5)

Sunburst Visual Media

This video talks to upper elementary-age children about a difficult subject - abuse.

Sensitive, age - appropriate scenarios explore three types of abuse: physical, verbal, and sexual as seen through the eyes of children. Viewers learn that victims of abuse are NOT responsible for causing it. They must tell an adult they trust what is happening and continue telling until someone takes action to stop it. Whether it's a father who gets angry and physically hurts a child, a grown-up who uses words to continually make a youngster feel worthless, or a person who touches the private parts of a child's body, this program will encourage and empower youngsters who are the victims of abuse to speak up and get help! After viewing this program, viewers will be able to identify the three different types of abuse, understand that they are NOT guilty of causing or perpetuating the abuse, learn the difference between bad touches / good touches and bad secrets / good secrets, and recognize that they MUST keep speaking up until someone helps them. This video will empower even the youngest children to feel that they have control over their own bodies. This program helps them differentiate between good and bad touches, learn that they have the right to say "no" to a touch that makes them feel uncomfortable, understand the "touching rule" and realize if they experience a bad touch, they MUST speak up and tell an adult they trust what happened. From the comfort of a hug or the joy of a high-five, to tickling that starts out as fun, but turns unpleasant, to the abusive touching of a private part of a child's body, this program will give youngsters the courage to protect themselves by speaking up!

After viewing this program, students will: trust their feelings about touches, learn what parts of their bodies are private, differentiate between good and bad secrets, and recognize that saying "no" and talking to a trusted adult can keep them safe. Study guide is included.

Me and My 500 Friends: Staying Safe on Social Networks (Grades 7-12)

Human Relations Media

This timely program provides teens with an essential safety primer on using social networks such as Facebook. Through interviews with experts and real-life young people, teens learn that social networks can be a useful tool for communication and connection, but also pose significant risks. Experts discuss how harmful rumors can be spread quickly as well as the danger of cyber bullying, or harassment that occurs through the internet, cell phones, and other technology. The risks of "sexting," or posting sexually explicit images or materials online, are also covered. Viewers see how "phishers" and identity thieves can glean private information from what you post on social profiles; finally, the risk of encountering sexual predators is emphasized. The program provides important, easy-to-follow rules for keeping information-and oneself-safe while using social networks.

My Body Is Mine!/Mi Cuerpo Es Mio! (Grades PK-5)

Osilaja, Peter

One way to prevent abuse is to carefully educate our children, to make them aware of predators and their lures, and to teach our children how to protect themselves. Children provided with accurate information at an early age can learn to avoid and possibly stop sexual advances. MY BODY IS MINE! provides a tool for addressing this delicate yet important subject with the children and to have a discussion afterward. Conversational questions are provided at the end of the book.

Online Safety Education Kit: Middle Schools (Grades 6-8 ONLY)

National Center for Missing & Exploited Children

NetSmartz is an Internet safety resource from the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children and the Boys & Girls Clubs of America that uses the latest technology to create high-impact educational activities for even the most tech-savvy kids of any age group. The goal of NetSmartz is to extend the safety awareness of children and empower them to make responsible decisions online and in real life. This is accomplished by:

- enhancing the ability of children to recognize dangers on the Internet,
- encouraging children to report victimization to a trusted adult,
- supporting and enhancing community education efforts,
- increasing communication between adults and children about online safety
- enhancing the ability of children to understand that people they first "meet" on the Internet should never be considered their friend.

Parents, guardians, educators, community leaders, and law enforcement can choose from resources including on and offline activities, games, Internet safety pledges, news articles, and activity cards designed to supplement the NetSmartz online activities. NetSmartz has also created interactive presentations for elementary, middle, and high school students and communities. PLEASE BE SURE TO INTERJECT CATHOLIC VIEWPOINTS.

Open Arms? Open Eyes! Power, Control and Abuse in Teen Relationships (Grades 7-12)

Human Relations Media

This award-winning video identifies the warning signs in teen relationships that set the stage for adult domestic violence. A great discussion starter, it is based on real scenarios and dialogue suggested by teenagers themselves. It features high school students and locations, and is an excellent resource for raising student awareness about healthy and unhealthy relationships. The DVD dramatizes specific issues of power and control among teens to help them spot the signs and avoid the corrosive effects of abusive relationships. To that end, there are 25 “red flags” displayed throughout the video to assist in the awareness of violent behavior patterns in dating relationships. PLEASE BE SURE TO INTERJECT CATHOLIC VIEWPOINTS.

Personal Power: A Gut Check on Safety (Grades 6-8)

Diocese of St. Cloud

Personal Power: A Gut Check on Safety is preppy and bright, addressing real situations young people encounter and provides good advice for handling these situations. Zach and his friends are at the high school when they learn that a stranger has approached Zach's little brother at the park. The parents recognize that the teens have much more credibility with the elementary-school kids, so they ask Zach, Maya and Jade to prepare a presentation about personal safety. The teens explore the difference between trusting adults and respecting them. As Zach, Maya and Jade research and prepare for their presentation, they learn a lot along the way. Personal Power addresses numerous dangers that kids face today, including social media liabilities, texting, portraying themselves as older than they are, and others.

Real People: Relationships That Hurt:
Dating Violence and Abuse
(Grades 8-12)

Sunburst Media

This documentary-style program explores how abusers engage in violence with the intent to exert power over their victims, isolating them from friends and family in order to gain complete control. Real teens talk about what they think constitutes abuse and why they may be vulnerable in romantic relationships. Experts explain how teens often don't tell anyone if they are victims of abuse because they are ashamed, or they don't want their parents stepping in to tell them what to do. Teens are advised how to get help for themselves, and how to help a friend who is being abused. While girls are by far the most frequent targets, the fact that boys also can be victims of dating abuse is discussed.

Real People: Sexual Harassment: What You Can Do
(Grades 7-12)

Sunburst Visual Media

It is estimated that four out of five teenagers experience sexual harassment at school. Many harassers see their behavior as nothing more than harmless teasing. Often, victims of sexual harassment feel powerless and don't know what they can do to protect themselves. Many bystanders who watch silently or laugh don't understand the part they play in perpetuating this behavior and the responsibility they have to stop it. Under the direction of experts in the field, a group of teens (including those who have experienced sexual harassment) discuss the reality of life in high school today: how to tell the difference between unwanted attention and flirting, the influence of the media, what victims and bystanders can do, and the importance of reporting sexual harassment when it happens. After viewing this program students will be able to: identify sexual harassment, distinguish between sexual harassment and flirting, understand how harmful sexual harassment is and recognize the role of bystanders Be aware of the importance of reporting sexual harassment. THIS VIDEO is designed to offer understanding and real help to teens who live in families in which violence occurs. The program helps viewers distinguish between what is normal family life and what is not. It defines domestic violence and shows how the cycle of violence builds from beginning to explosive end. There are examples of verbal and emotional abuse and the pain it produces, which is equal or even worse than physical assault. It examines the impact of domestic violence on children and the emotions it generates. It also shows the likelihood that they will follow their parents' violent example. This video also gives viewers hope that they can survive what they may see as a hopeless situation, where to get help and strategies on how to cope.

Real People: Violence Prevention: Don't Be A Victim (Grades 9-12 ONLY!)

Sunburst Visual Media

Teenagers are easy targets for victimization because of their inexperience – they think crime won't happen to them. Feelings of invincibility often lead youth to believe they are tough enough to do anything or go anywhere. They are sure that if they should become a victim of violence, they will be able to bounce back. VIOLENCE PREVENTION: DON'T BE A VICTIM rebuts this unrealistic idea and opens the student's eyes to the threat and reality of violence.

It is designed to equip viewers with specific strategies for keeping safe at school, on the street, and on the Internet. Without using scare tactics, the video interweaves comments about how violence and victimization affected lives, with advice on staying safe. This video comes with a teacher's guide.

Student Workshop: I Was Just Kidding! Learning About Harassment (Grades 3-5)

Sunburst Visual Media

Defining harassment as any behavior that makes someone feel bad or uncomfortable and continues even after the harasser has been asked to stop, STUDENT WORKSHOP: I WAS JUST KIDDING! LEARNING ABOUT HARASSMENT is designed to show students that many of the behaviors they may engage in - or simply witness as bystanders - are not only embarrassing and unwelcome to those being harassed, but can be offensive and hurtful as well. Four scenarios illustrate specific behaviors that young students will quickly recognize as typical of their peers. Because children have the fundamental right to feel safe at school, two themes overarch the program: to show viewers how teasing, name-calling, and bullying affect others, and to promote respect and understanding by making clear the need to treat others as they themselves want to be treated.

The Dangers of Sexting: What Teens Need to Know (Grades 7-12)

Human Relations Media

In a recent survey, one in five teens admitted to sending nude or semi-nude photos or videos and more than half said it was common for explicit photos and text messages to be passed around among friends. View teens' real stories: a girl recounts how a semi-nude picture of her became widely circulated in her school; a boy tells his story of how he received and forwarded a picture and was almost charged as a sex offender. A prominent sexuality educator drives home the legal consequences of sexting. Using a peer-to-peer approach, teens talk about the importance of resisting pressures to engage in sexting. They emphasize that you can't assume that anything you send or post is going to remain private; that you can't change your mind once something is out there in cyberspace; and that what you may think is a harmless joke may be interpreted very differently by someone else. Combining powerful interviews of battered and verbally abused teens with expert commentary, this DVD delivers key facts about dating abuse. Emotional abuse includes isolation from friends, family, and outside activities; using insulting names or degrading terms; displaying jealousy and possessiveness; controlling a partner's clothing choices and behavior; using the cell phone excessively to monitor behavior; and threatening self-harm to control behavior. Sexual and physical abuse includes extreme roughhousing; pushing, grabbing, restraining, and other violent behaviors that don't leave marks or bruises; touching a partner's body in ways that make him/her feel uncomfortable; and making threats as a means of coercing a partner's consent to sexual activity. Teen speakers and dating abuse experts offer helpful advice on how teens can get away from potentially unhealthy, dangerous relationships. Study guide is included.

Think Before You Click: Playing It Safe Online (Grades 5-9)

Human Relations Media

While the Internet is a place of promise and progress, it is also a place of peril for young teens. Chat rooms, e-mail, sites such as MySpace, and instant messaging allow teens to keep in touch with friends, but also offer the potential for youngsters to be abused in ways they have not considered. Using real teens in a peer-to-peer format, this DVD helps teens navigate problems and learn important rules and strategies to keep them safe while surfing the net. The program explores online bullying and rumor spreading, identity theft, blogging, and the real threat of sexual predators. Viewers learn to "think before you click" in order to avoid embarrassing themselves or hurting others, while keeping themselves and others safe. Your students will conclude that while the Internet is a fun, exciting place, it is always important to be smart about what you say and whom you befriend online. PLEASE BE SURE TO INTERJECT CATHOLIC VIEWPOINTS.

Violence Prevention: Harassment Hurts: Gossiping, Taunting, and Bullying (Grades 3-5)

Sunburst Visual Media

This program gives youngsters the opportunity to consider and discuss strategies for coping with the effects of gossiping, taunting and bullying. What constitutes harassment? How does it make kids feel? What can they do to handle it? What should they do if they witness it? These are the questions that will be answered in this honest and highly effective program. With the encouragement of a school counselor, young teens share their own experiences coping with bullying, taunting and teasing. They view and react to dramatic vignettes that show realistic situations of harassment. Dr. Michael Furlong, professor at UC Santa Barbara, lends expert advice to students about what they can do to handle these difficult situations. 23 minutes.

Yes, You Can Say No (Grades 2-6)

Committee for Children

YES, YOU CAN SAY NO is a dramatic educational video showing children modeling protective, assertive behavior in a number of believable safety situations, including the prevention of sexual assault. Learning theory has identified modeling as an effective means of developing desired behavior in both adults and children. The constellation of assertiveness skills which are modeled in the video have been identified by therapists and offenders as critical to reducing a child's vulnerability to sexual assault. Briefly explain to your class that YES, YOU CAN SAY NO is a film about building assertiveness skills to protect themselves and to deal with everyday challenges. You Can Solve It! Harassment (Grades 5-9)

Sunburst Visual Media

Young teens see harassment every day. Some are perpetrators. Some are victims. All are witnesses. What should you do if you are harassed? What should you do if you see harassment? These four scenarios help teens find answers to those questions. Adam's friends hear his mother and sister call him "Einstein." When his friends start calling him that, Adam asks them not to, but they won't stop. When does good-natured teasing become harassment? Lily likes to wear "hippy-style" clothes and is constantly taunted in school and online. How can emotional harassment be just as hurtful as physical harassment? Luke takes pleasure in bullying Dan. When asked why he does it, Luke says he isn't doing anything to Dan that his brothers don't do to him. How can bullying hurt the bully as well as the target? A teacher's guide is included.
